To give you an idea of what was there, included in the photos is a plot plan and basic blueprints of the previous house. With having both street and rear lane access, the design and style of a new build would have several options. Not only does this location back directly onto green space but, directly across the street is access to hiking trails along the nearby North Saskatchewan River. Close to several city parks and a river, this location is also a quick getaway to Crimson Lake Provincial Park and its popular campgrounds and sand beaches. Discover living in vibrant Rocky Mountain house - it is one of the unappreciated gems of Alberta. Located in the beautiful rolling foothills and alongside the mighty North Saskatchewan River, this National Historic Site is the gateway to all the most appealing wilderness of the Rocky Mountains.
